PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

LORD MACAULEY'S SPEECH ON EDUCATION.

Delivered in the House of Commons, April 18th, 1847. (Virginia Educational Journal.)

I believe, Sir, that it is the right and the duty of the State to provide means of education for the common people. This proposition seems to me to be implied in every definition that has ever been given of the functions of a government. About the extent of those functions there has been much difference of opinion among ingenious men. There are some who hold that it is the business of a government to meddle with every part of the system of human life, to regulate trade by bounties and prohibitions, to regulate expenditure by sumptuary laws, to regulate religion by a censorship, to regulate industry by a system of action. But the very narrow sphere that ever was assigned to government by any school of political philosophy is quite wide enough for my purposes. On one point all the disputants are agreed. They unanimously acknowledge that it is the duty of every government to take order for giving security to the persons and property of the members of the community.

This being admitted, can it be denied that the education of the common people is a subject which every government is entitled to take care of? He is extremely disliked busy, prying, interfering government. He was for leaving education, arts, sciences, to take care of themselves. He was not friendly to ecclesiastical establishments. He was of the opinion that the state ought not to meddle with the education of the rich. But he has expressly told that a distinction between the education of the rich and the education of the poor, he says, is a matter which deeply concerns the commonwealth. Just as magistrates ought to interfere for the purpose of preventing the poor from perishing among the people, he ought to interfere for the purpose of stopping the progress of the mind, the very government is imperious for ignorance. Nor can this duty be neglected without danger to the community. The mind is a muscle, untrained, there is a serious risk that religious animosities may produce a civil war. The mind is a muscle, untrained, there is a serious risk that religious animosities may produce a civil war.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce D. S. GODEY as a candidate for representative from the district composed of the counties of Montgomery, Menifee, Powell and Wolfe, subject to action of the democratic party.

We are authorized to announce Dr. F. M. THOMAS as an independent republican candidate to represent the legislative district composed of Montgomery, Menifee, Powell and Wolfe counties.

LET US EDUCATE.

There could be no stronger argument produced in favor of education than the article which appears on our first page to-day, under the title "Public Schools." It is a speech delivered by Lord MACATELY in the house of commons, England, as far back as 1847. In it he goes over the entire subject by detail, and his conclusions, based upon the statistics of prisons and prisoners, are those of a wise counselor. It would be well for each man, woman and child in the mountain country to read every line of it, that they may prepare themselves for the future education of our people. Especially should the heads of families and property owners realize their duties in this matter. The people must be educated—the masses—and it behooves every man who has the good of his fellow-man at heart to assist him in anything so laudable as an education. Do not let pecuniary penury stand between you and right. You cannot take away from this world any more than you brought into it, unless it be of those valuable commodities, sin and stinginess. Unload some of your hoarded wealth, therefore, to assist those whom fortune has not favored as she has you, and aid in educating the youth of the land. Hand out your shekels to supplement the school fund of your county, until every neighborhood in the mountains may reverberate with the joyous sounds of the school-house bell. The precept established heretofore by several of our immediate citizens, of supplementary gifts to this cause, is certainly a very commendable one, and should be practiced by each man's crinoid men. If you would wish to outdo me you should use charity, especially toward schools. Lord MACATELY holds "that whoever has a right to hang has a right to educate." Is it not so? Can your conscience convince you that it is right to punish an ignorant man? No, no, the law of the land does not recognize ignorance as an excuse, but what about the law of God? Does not an accusing conscience say to you, every time one of these uneducated unfortunates comes up for a criminal offense, "I am in a measure responsible for that man's crime, for I have lived a frugal life and boarded that which I have, when I might have spared some for his and his children's succor?" Be a man, and show your worth by your deeds. Let us have schools—common schools, graded schools, high schools, colleges. When we have a school, then this country will flourish as a green bay tree. Do not say "That will never be!" It is as easy as saying "It shall be done!" Talk with your neighbors and impress them with the idea of education. Show them the fruits of it in places where they most enjoy it, in colleges, in universities, in the precincts to extend the school term by a liberal donation of private funds. You will never miss what you give, because the increased happiness and prosperity you will witness will more than compensate you for the pecuniary outlay.

OUR STAGE LINE.

A stage line from here to Rothwell will pay a bigger dividend than any railroad in the state. Do not take our word for it, but go to work and prove it by building it up. The travel on this line would be not less than 5,000 persons per annum, which at the minimum price of $2.00 apiece would be $10,000, and $3.00 would cheerfully be paid for three months in the year, which would make the receipts at the rate of $15,000 for the passenger traffic alone. Then the mail contract could be secured at $1,000. It is now carried in a very unsatisfactory manner at $800, but even this would pay for the care of the stock on the line. The express matter would more than pay for the drivers, two of them, and the wear and tear on the stages. There is no toll to pay, and at one end of the line board for the driver and stable room for the horses have been tendered, without cost, by Mr. J. H. PIERATT, of the Pleasant Home in this town. Besides these advantages, the trains on the Kentucky and South Atlantic railway, running from Mt. Sterling will be made to arrive at, and depart from Rothwell to suit the convenience of the stage line, provided reasonable hours are named. Moreover, Mr. G. B. HARPER, the accommodating and affable superintendent of said road will do anything in reason to advance the project. We have here shown you the net receipts from such a line, after it is equipped, which would probably cost, for twelve horses, $1,000; two stage coaches, $1,200; harness for the twelve horses, $300—total, $2,500—clear net gain, $8,500. It will be observed that we have priced the horses and stages at a high figure, while our estimate of the travel and express matter has been very low; but we do this to demonstrate that there is money in the enterprise, and we hope some clear headed man may take hold of and push the enterprise to a success. We might go on and demonstrate still further profits to accrue from such a line, but deem our estimate sufficient.

AN URBANE OFFICIAL.

Of the few railroad officials who have won the confidence and esteem of the public, there are none more urbane and courteous than the clever superintendent of the Kentucky and South Atlantic railway, Mr. Geo. B. HARPER. He is more generally liked than any official we know, and the reason is obvious. He is ever on the lookout for something to build up the country through which his road runs. The gentlemanly he made in regard to our proposed stage line would not, we venture, have been made by any other railroad official in the country. They are generally very stiff, and want the favors to be extended in their direction, but he proposes to accommodate the line at the expense of his road, and the people of this section appreciate the offer much. We hope this road may be extended nearer to us soon, that we may see more of him, and be able to reciprocate his many generous offers.

Kentucky's Resources.

[Reprint H. Young.]

First—Her climate is the most salubrious, possessing all the elements of a healthy and happy life. Situated in the heart of the country, half way between the north and the south, her climate is neither too hot nor too cold. Her rainfall is 50 inches per annum, while in the northwest, where many storms emigrate, the rainfall is only 35 inches, and in the south, where the storms are more frequent, it is 60 inches. Kentucky would bear comparison equally as well.

Second—She has more miles of navigable rivers within and around her borders than any other state of equal size. These, if properly improved, would be great highways to the sea. While Ohio, Indiana and Pennsylvania have very few navigable rivers, Kentucky has 1,000 miles.

Third—In the matter of coal, Kentucky stands pre-eminent by nature. She has 300 miles of coal land, and Great Britain. One third of the whole state is underlain with coal or iron. Kentucky has one fifth of all the Appalachian coal district and one twelfth of all the Illinois coal district. The 100,000,000 tons of coal annually produced in the United States, Kentucky furnishes only 1,500,000 tons. England, with a district less than one fourth the size of Kentucky, produces annually 157,000,000 tons, worth $300,000,000. Though comparatively small in coal, Kentucky is often instructive. Illinois produces one tenth of the coal mined in the United States. Pennsylvania produces six tenths, and ships much of it one thousand miles and further, to market, while Kentucky furnishes only one fifth, having no, over 300 miles square miles of coal land than Pennsylvania. Kentucky has five times the amount of coal land than Pennsylvania has, yet it furnishes not one ton. In a little district in Pennsylvania, not larger than a blue grass county in Kentucky, there is a tract of coal land mined annually, which is worth $200,000,000. To offset this, Kentucky has the finest coal district in the world. In several counties in Eastern Kentucky including Morgan, Wolfe and Boone, the coal is of a fine quality as the German coal. In petroleum Kentucky has a finer district than Pennsylvania, yet the latter state does every year 155 barrels, while the former produces only 7 barrels, and so indifferent are Kentuckians to the subject that 500,000 barrels were allowed to run into the Cumberland river and waste, without an effort being made to stop it. The cry is raised that it is for the lack of transportation, and yet in Pennsylvania oil is run 700 miles through iron pipes to market, not waiting for railroads.

Fourth—In iron, up to 1860, Kentucky held a prominent position, and even as late as 1872 she had fifty furnaces in full blast and furnished one tenth of the iron of the nation. Now she has not a furnace in operation, and yet the state has only two places in the world where coal and iron are found within two miles of each other as in Kentucky.

Fifth—Kentucky has 30,000 acres of the finest white pine land in the world, and in hard wood timber she has more than any five other states. Any quantity of land in Eastern Kentucky can be bought for one dollar per acre, when elsewhere it is sold for ten times that cost. Two billion feet of lumber float annually down the Kentucky river alone. The greatest obstacle in developing all these resources is the lack of transportation, and this owing mainly to the lack of our own citizens on this subject. They have been too busy annually western ranches and silver and gold mines, and leave uncultivated the rich fields at home. Although the center of population in the United States is in Kentucky, yet her own population increases very slowly. Only 3,000 out of her 1,600,000 citizens are engaged in mining, making and getting lumber, and yet the market for these products in the cities of Louisville, Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis and other cities south and west than Pennsylvania, which now supplies them. The crying

The Scorchers' Settlements.
It is right to allow the whisky traffic to poison the people, manufacture drunkards, paupers, lunatics, taxes, ruined homes, corrupt the ballot and fatten on unrighteous gains! The good men and women from Plymouth rock to the Golden Gate say 'no,' and humanity shouts, amen.

The suggestion contained in last week's HERALD in regard to the establishment of sale days at Hazel Green, ought to be adopted, not only by the people of that vicinity, but such sale days ought to be held monthly in each county in the mountains. When we quit driving our stock to the lower markets, there to run the gauntlet of combinations to slaughter them, they will come to us and pay us for our stock what it is reasonably worth.

A company was incorporated at the last session of the legislature to bridge the Licking at near this town. It is to be hoped that the gentlemen who compose the company will put the project on foot at once and accomplish the work this season. It is a convenience demanded by the very necessities of our people, and an enterprise that ought to be encouraged and aided by all. By all means let it be completed before next winter.

The case of the commonwealth against James Estes, charged with murder, was tried last week, and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty of manslaughter, and fixed his punishment at confinement in the penitentiary for eight years. Estes was also tried for his confinement and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary, making two years in all. The murder was the killing of young Frank Mann, last July.

SALEM, ILLA, April 14.
Editor of THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD: As a specimen copy of your paper comes to fall into my hands, and as I am much pleased with it, you will find enclosed $1. for one year's subscription. I must congratulate the citizens of Wolfe for having such a breezy sheet in their locality. It most assuredly is a longed for want supply; and it will be greatly to the interest of the people of Eastern Kentucky to support it liberally. Wishing the HERALD success, I subscribe myself, E. H. STERLING. From a private letter to W. T. Caskey of this place, from Monteville, Mo., we were permitted to make the following extract:—"Brother, I received a sample copy of THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD, and I am well pleased with it. Find enclosed $1. to pay a year's subscription. Would not be without it for five times the price. All good people ought to do something for the HERALD, and especially those in Eastern Kentucky." Enoch S. Caskey."

The Acorn's Ability.
THE ACORN: THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD is the name of a bright and spicy weekly, published at Hazel Green, Kentucky, by Spencer Cooper at $1 per annum. We notice in its columns the advice to the people of this county to plant acorns. It is a well known fact that acorns will grow good things and is ably edited.

THE SLENDID SADDLE AND HARNESS STALLION,
GREY EAGLE.

Will make the season of 1885 at the stables of the subscriber, on Red River, six miles east of Hazel Green, at $4 to insure a Mare in Foal, money due when the mare proves to be in foal or is parted with, and a live will be retained on the colt for the insurance money, where it is not paid before foaling time.

DESCRIPTION.
GREY EAGLE is a beautiful dapple gray; strong, hands high, finely formed and exhibits grand action and style.

PEDIGREE.
GREY EAGLE was sired by a Packard horse from Ohio, and his dam was a fine horse from the blue grass region of this state. He has proved himself a more foal-getter, and his colts are as fine as those of any horse ever in the mountains.

All colts will be taken to prevent diseases, but will not be responsible should any occur.
R. M. WILSON.

Swango Springs.

The Water of Life for Afflicted Humanity.
IRON IS KING.
These springs are located three-quarters of a mile from the beautiful town of Hazel Green. The water contains iron, and a percentage of iron than any other water known, hence it is the most valuable in the cure of disease—used internally or externally. Among the many diseases which fresh is said to, and for which it is a wonderful water is known to be a positive and permanent cure, are the following:

CONSTIPATION, DYSPEPSIA, SKIN DISEASES, SCROFULA, CATARRH, RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, NEURALGIA, NEURALGIA, AC.

We append a few of the hundreds of testimonials which have been tendered as to the efficacy of this water in disease. One lady writes: "I am so thankful to the Great Giver of all Blessings that I tried Swango Springs. Pretty do I give all the time and money spent there for the health and happiness of my family."

A gentleman of Illinois says: "I think the water of Swango Springs did me more good than all the costliest I have ever taken. It certainly has been my again next spring." "The HERALD is a grand paper. I am well pleased with it. Find enclosed $1. to pay a year's subscription. Would not be without it for five times the price. All good people ought to do something for the HERALD, and especially those in Eastern Kentucky." Enoch S. Caskey."
